THE Waterworks Bill, which has been submitted by the Government for the consideration of the Sauitary Board, embodies the principles enunciated by the Hon. O. CHADWICK in his memorandum of the 12th January last. An abundant but not unlimited supply of water is to be provided for each house as a return for the amount paid as water-rate; for any extra quantity, whether wasted or required for industrial purposes, an extra charge is to be made. Every house may have its own service if the owner wishes, and for houses which are not so supplied public taps will be ly struck with its cleanliness, his constant readily accessible. With proper regula- execulation, as he went shout with the Mixed ing that English orders are practically sil, it is tions and supervision the waste from the How clean !" latter will be small, and in houses provided with a service of their own the In his memorandum Mr. Chapwick gives between 10,000 and 15,000. On this portion of the Bill, therefore, there will probably not be much difference of opinion either in the Sanitary Board or land. thority to make by-laws on the subject of water supply is clearly the Sanitary Board, whether under that name or the more general title of a Municipal Council. The Water and Drainge Department having been scharated from the Surveyor General's Department, this arrangement could be easily carried out, for whatever objections may exist to the subordination of the older department to the Sanitary Board, there can be no objection to the adoption of that course in the case a new department whose organisation is not yet complete. The Sanitary Board will at all events be justified in asking for some specific declaration of the Government's intention as to the constitution of the proposed Water Authority. Mr. CRADWICK, in his memorandum. says :- "If, at some future time, a Municipal body be formed, the water-works, thus treated as a separated undertaking, might be taken over as a revenue-producing asset by the newly created body-corporate, which would commence operations with an income derived from the investments of their predecessors, as if they were endowed with real estate." Apart from the financial aspect of the question, the vesting of the control of the water-works in the Sanitary Board would be eminently beneficial to the community. The Sanitary Board is to a large extent a scene of the disaster, and make all the efforts in representative body, it works openly, and is. like other representative bodies, amenable wrecked ship. to public opinion. water rate should be fixed at such a figure as to pay interest on the capital value of the waterworks, and he works it out that a three per cent: rate would be required. It is satisfactory to find that the Hou. A. LISTER, Colonial Treasurer, in a minute on the subject, is able to give the assurance that "it will be found possible to set aside three per cent, of our present rates as a water rate, rates are intended to meet." The rates were raised from 12 to 18 per cent. because as the bon, gentleman explained at the time, 12 per cent. did not cover the expenditure properly chargeable to the rates The running expenses of the waterworks are, FOR COAST PORTS, Waters are packed it appears, $10,000 per annum. For ourselves, we feel persuaded of the value of antiferous bearing reefs in Punion as in many other spots in Pahang, and that when the country becomes better exploited cost of production of the metals that the coun try is known to held, is not excessive, the public will be astonished at the extraordinary metallic resources. Hitherto Pahang has been brought before the British public more as a tin-produc ing country than for the more highly-prized gold. But we have long known that gold in considerable quantities exists. The Punjoin is the pioneer of the companies for this metal, and has already made good progress with works, and has its machinery on the spot. Provided that a careful check is put on the expenses, there is every reason to believe that the Punjom Pahang ompany has a good, if not a brilliant, future before it, and, with so much preliminary work done, it ought to soon yield returns.

> THE BALMORAL GOLD MINING COMPANY.

The Secretary of the Balmoral Gold Mining Company has received the following information: Company's manager in Sydney 185 tons of stone have been crushed at the ublic battery. 75 tons of first quality, and 60 tons of second. Out of this was obtained 101 oza, or 15 dwts. to the ton, two tons of concenrates which assay oz. 17, 19.8 per ton (fine gold s worth £4.4s.11d. per oz.) and the tailings assay oz. 1 dwt. 2 grs 10 per ton. Samples were taken from each leap, mixed, and sent to the assayer The tailings have been saved and stacked, and will be taken to the Co.'s own battery and treatliances for saving the free gold. After stone had been carted to the public hattery the manager discovered that although new shoes and lies had been added, the battery tables and plates were in very poor condition, but having the stone there the manager thought it better to rash it slowly, and fully expected to get returns of 14 ozs, per ton and still save some rich concentrates. The stone treated is calculated to be of 2 oz. quality all round :— Say 135 tons 101 ozs

The Singapore Free Press says :-- The Hongong Military Contribution, like ours, has, been increased 100 per cent, and yet that increase is £12,000 short of what this Colony had to pay before the demand of the Home Government was raised from £52,000 to £100,000. The " Financial Focus of the Far East" has contented itself with scoopling the apparently inevitable, and the strongest argument for the adoption of that atti-I tude may have easily been found in the fact that the sister Crown Colony in the South had already had to face and accent, under complusion and under protest; the "requisition" for an amount two and a half times greater. Another reason which may have assisted to recoucile Hougkong to abstaining from formal resistance is the fact that that Colony is to receive a larger garrison and therefore get a long way more for her money than we shall. Hongkong pays £4 1,000 per annum and is to have per steamers Catterthun and Teinan from the for that a garrison of 3,018 men of all ranks. of whom 2,525 are to be Europeaus. Singapore has been ordered to pay £100,000 for a total garrison of 1.519 men of whom 1.348 are be Europeans. Or otherwise, Hougkong gets! a soldier for every £13, or a European for every £16 the Colony has to pay. Singapore is promised a man for each £66 she pays, and each £75 in the demanded contribution will give us a European soldier. Bearing in mind the fact that Hongkong is the naval head-quarters of China Station and that the British ed. The point to which we would draw attention is not so much the valuable asture of the dose (for we hold that the remedy is werse than the disease) as the circumstance that a custom could prevail widely Central China, and yet be unknown in the northern provinces. The artist who also presses this point adds one or two other New Year customs now so rare as to be practically obsolete. One was for the District Magistrate on New Year's day to feed a sheep on as many kinds of fodder as could be found, and a chicken on the five sorts of grain after which he publicly killed aud ate them. Another consisted in awallowing on this first of days a fowl's egg whole, and in taking a oath distilled from the "five perfumes." The first operation conferred magic powers, the last merely acted as a hair restorer.

It would seem that most Chinese think it 'bad joss," as our domestics would say to est meat on New Year's day. But this, it appears from the next illustration is a vulgar error. Iu ancient (probably pre-Buddhistic) times men of sense ate, on that as on all other days, whatever they thought best and could get, while for their good luck in this if not another life they trusted to their moral merits. At the same time they always bore in mind the great example set them by the sage, and made a point of taking ginger with their meals.

Another New Year custom, for a wonder not age of 20, has succeeded nevertheless in passing for his heintsai degree. His wife is ambitious and looks forward to seeing him in the Hanlin. suring prophecy, of course.

Another superstition connected with the New Year festivities is depicted in this same number. On the day of the Feast of Lanterns, a table is spread with tea and confectionery, candles and incense, and a basket dressed up to represent a female figure. This image is invoked by the name of Traku with the rather work-a-day incantation "Trasu isn't here, Madame Teso bas gone; you may come out, sister." When the blazers (for it is carried about the house) find the figure grow heavy, they know the spirit is present, and questions are then put us to the fortunes, in store for the coming year. Tzaku was, the narrator explains, a hand maid of Pasu, the husband of Adams Tsac. The latter was jealous and set the girl unpleasant tasks to perform, whereat she died of rage on the day Admiral Fremantie said he fully shared the of the Feast of Lanterns, and (with the customary perversity of Chinese god-making) was given a place in the pantheon. The narrator vouches for the custom but adds the somewhat remarkable query, "How can this spirit, beingbut a single spirit, appear in several places at the same time?" We are accustomed to regard the Chinese as being like the Athenians of St. Paul's day, over prone to superstition: but hore is scaptions rampant. There are, as Mark Twain pointed out several saints in Italy who have left behind them half a dozen skulls apiece, all their own, and nobody seems disposed to as they are at present. At the same time he cavil; yet the ghost of a maid servant in Chins, admitted that he did not possess first-class iron- which Italy rightly sends priests to convert, is clads and it would perhaps be equally difficult not allowed to animate more than one clothes basket at once. We may add, for the benefit Bombay. On the whole he was inclined to think of the ensuing Missionary Conference, which that when the batteries are armed Bombay may the interminable term question will doubtless come to the fore, that the word translated spirit is shen, and we would draw the attention of all concerned to this distinct limitation of a shen's properties and powers. - N. Yesterday afternoon, being Easter Monday, and a holiday, several scratch matches were run on the Course, and produced some good sport, the finishes in two cases being very close. Things are quiet enough here now, and the Government are proceeding slowly but steadily with the improvement of the City. Good roads have been made, and broad side walks exist in parts, but I doubt if much thought has been bestowed on the drainage. The native wheelbarrows, something like the Chinese vehicle. hed An extraordinary meeting of the shareholders merely for what it is worth—that the intention are now much in use removing soil, and as all of the Songei Koyah Planting Company was of the present Cabinet is to shelve the question of them are innocent of grease the squeaking is held on the 14th inst. CUTLER, PALMER & Co. NOW ON SALE. IMPERIAL QUARTO. TANGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and inscience generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography lishlave the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English To other European Points at proportionate words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characrates. Special reduced rates granted to Officers ters. Again, despite all the grammars and of the Army, Navy, Civil Service, and the other elementary works as yet published, the quires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its coeding Overland by the Southern Pacific and should be marked to address in full; and the pages enables a person who understands English connecting Lines. Central Pacific, Northern should be marked to address in full; and the pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who same will be received by us until 5 P.M. the understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect For information as to Passage or Freight, Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. 8 In China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
